Some who have recently acknowledged the theory of Israeli involvement in the JFK assassination.

What Is the Missing Link in the JFK Assassination Conspiracy?

• More & more top-notch researchers acknowledge the Israeli connection

By Michael Collins Piper

In recent days, amidst the repetitive cacophony from the controlled media — echoed even in the "alternative"media — that Lyndon Johnson was the mastermind behind the murder of John F. Kennedy, a growing number of independent voices dared to say otherwise.

They openly endorsed the thesis — first put forth in this author's out-of-print book, Final Judgment, first published in 1994 — that Israel was a frontline player alongside the CIA in the JFK assassination conspiracy as a consequence of JFK's determined efforts to prevent Israel from building nuclear weapons, the strategic cornerstone of the Jewish state's national security policy.

Although media giant Alex Jones — sponsored by Sirius, a Jewish-controlled satellite radio conglomerate — continues to insist LBJ was behind JFK's assassination, even endorsing the work of author Barr McClellan who makes the ridiculous, long-discredited claim that JFK assassination patsy Lee Harvey Oswald was one of the gunmen firing on Kennedy from the Texas School Book Depository in Dallas — a point Jones keeps under wraps — a lot of significant people believe differently.

For example, popular commentator Dr. Kevin Barrett, an American academic, in a piece published on Iran's English-language website, "Press- TV," wrote that Final Judgment "makes a strong case that Israel was a leading force behind the assassination of JFK."

Barrett cited French scholar and longstanding JFK assassination researcher, Dr. Laurent Guyenot, who has endorsed the thesis of Final Judgment.

Guyenot admitted that he had, until recently, refrained from reading Final Judgment, having been, in his words, "warned against the book's bad reputation among most JFK researchers." But Guyenot now says Final Judgment is "a book which is in a category by itself" in all of the vast literature on the topic and the one that presents "the really 'unspeakable' " piece of the JFK assassination puzzle.

Another independent analyst, Don Fox — writing via Dr. Jim Fetzer's column at the website VeteransToday.com — has cited Final Judgment and critiqued JFK writer James DiEugenio who, Fox pointed out, "never mentions Israel or the Mossad as having a motive to kill Kennedy." In fact, DiEugenio has often vigorously denounced the book's thesis.

But now even "mainstream" media elements are being forced to acknowledge that there does exist a theory implicating Israel in the assassination.

On Nov. 16, The Dallas Morning News listed "ten popular conspiracy theories" about the assassination, including: "The Israelis theory: JFK did not support Israel's drive to build nuclear weapons. The Israelis believed Joe Kennedy, the president's father, was anti-Semitic and wielded influence over his son. LBJ reversed U.S. policy on Israeli nuclear arms once he became president."

Adding to the mix was the publication of the first-ever book of JFK's correspondence, The Letters of John F. Kennedy, edited by respected historian Martin W. Sandler.

Featuring contentious correspondence between JFK and Israeli leader David Ben-Gurion over Israel's nuclear weapons program, Sandler referenced Final Judgment (the only book on the assassination he mentions) and asserts of its thesis that "of all the conspiracy theories, it remains one of the most intriguing."

For daring to air the thesis, Sandler has been attacked by pro-Israel voices in the United States such as National Review and The Washington Free Beacon, edited by the son-in-law of Zionist power broker William Kristol. And in Britain, Jewish historian Simon Schama, reviewing Sandler's book for London's Financial Times, complained that the book "bizarrely gives space to the notion that [the] Mossad might have had a hand in the death" of JFK.

Then, in a presentation on Nov. 16 at the John F. Kennedy Museum in Hyannis, Mass. (broadcast on CSPAN-2), Sandler noted there were now voices saying, in Sandler's words: "Forget Lyndon Johnson. Forget the CIA. Forget Fidel Castro. Mossad killed Kennedy because they were so upset over what he did to Ben-Gurion."

Responding to the obvious surprise of his audience, Sandler commented that there were "a few little bombshells we throw in [the book]"—adding they were "not proven," a remark prompting the program moderator to laugh and say, "I hear you."

Even Jim Marrs, author of Crossfire — once called "the big daddy of the conspiracy books on the JFK assassination" — was forced into including a passing reference (just one sentence) to the thesis of Final Judgment (but not mentioning the book) in the revised edition of his book, noting, "There is also the argument that Kennedy was opposed to Israel's development of nuclear weapons and was demanding inspections of Israel's Dimona nuclear plant, a position that alienated powerful Zionists."

Marrs did mention Final Judgment in the revised bibliography of Crossfire, although that bibliography was published only on the Internet — not in the book—in order, according to Marrs, "to save space."

In recent years Marrs had been under fire from critics who revealed he had received some $200,000 from Israeli arms dealer Arnon Milchan (a key player in Israel's nuclear weapons program) for the rights to Crossfire when Milchan bankrolled Oliver Stone's film, "JFK," which avoided mentioning JFK's secret war with Israel over nuclear weapons and the ties of multiple alleged JFK conspirators to Israel and its nuclear agenda, preferring to suggest the events in Dallas were an "inside job."

No, the JFK assassination — just like 9-11 and the Oklahoma City bombing (and the attack on the USS Liberty) — was an "outside job."

It's time to forget about those extinct dinosaurs like LBJ and focus on the real monster, which has its tentacles wrapped around the planet today
